Established with the mission to empower marginalized communities, KIRTADS engages in research, training, and development activities focused on the socio-economic upliftment of Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes, and other marginalized groups.

KIRTADS plays a crucial role in documenting and preserving the cultural heritage of tribal communities in Kerala while actively promoting policies and programs that enhance their quality of life. Through its extensive research, it offers insights and recommendations that inform governmental policies and initiatives aimed at achieving social equity. In partnering with Government Law College, Kozhikode, for this seminar, KIRTADS seeks to further its commitment to advocating for the rights of tribal communities and fostering legal awareness and inclusivity.

About the Seminar

Tribal communities in India, with their unique cultures, languages, and traditional knowledge, represent a vital aspect of the country's diversity. However, these communities face several socio-economic, cultural, and environmental challenges, often exacerbated by marginalization and lack of access to justice. As a legal educational institution, Government Law College, Kozhikode, in collaboration with KIRTADS, aims to initiate a platform for intellectual discussion, advocacy, and action regarding the rights and well-being of tribal communities.

The seminar aims to critically examine the existing legal and constitutional framework for tribal rights in India, providing an in-depth understanding of the socio-economic, political, and cultural challenges faced by tribal communities in India, across the country. It seeks to create a platform for meaningful dialogue among students, academics, legal practitioners, tribal representatives, and policymakers, fostering an exchange of perspectives and experiences. Additionally, the seminar will highlight successful models and case studies in tribal development and rights advocacy, allowing participants to learn from effective approaches. Ultimately, the goal is to propose actionable recommendations to strengthen tribal rights and address gaps in their implementation, contributing to a more just and inclusive society.
